"If we don't make it home from this," I say at length, "if they never hear from us back on Earth, never know what became of their starship?" Sixty overlay tracks and one com board between Jain and maybe a cool million horny, sweating. The game started out like a Marx Brothers routine. Lorraine and Johnny acted like two canaries playing Scrabble with the cat, but Detweiler was so normal and unconcerned they soon settled down. Conversation was tense and ragged at first until Lorraine got off on her "career" and kept us entertained and laughing. She had known a lot of famous people and was a fountain of anecdotes, most of them funny and libelous. Detweiler proved quickly to be the best player, but Johnny, to my surprise, was no slouch. Lorraine played dismally but she didn't seem to mind. The Man Who Had No Idea. "I didn't tell you that. We pulled the dome back and found spikes. It was your inference that they poked holes in the bottom." It was impossible to answer with ice in my chest. I could only stare back while she hunted around for. In a sense, "That, I'm sure, was just coincidence," said Michelle. "After all, we're speaking of only two cases, and neither of the individuals in question was particularly bright. Bright people wouldn't be so quixotic, would they?" She underlined her question with a Mona Lisa smile, and Barry, for all his indignation and outrage, couldn't keep from smiling back. Anyone who could drop a word like "quixotic" into the normal flow of conversation and make it seem so natural couldn't be all wrong. "I've tried living with you," Amanda said, "but it doesn't work.
