I (like many reviewers) often stage a little play called The Adventures of Byline. Byline (or "I") is the same species of creature as the Kindly Editor or the Good Doctor, who appear from time to time in these pages. That is, she is a form of shorthand. When Byline rewrites story X, that doesn't mean that I?the real, historical personage?actually did or will or wish to rewrite story X, or that I expect its real, historical author to rewrite it to Byline's prescription, any more than my saying that "my" copy of Bug Jack Ban-on tried to punch "me" in the nose means that such an event really happened. Pauline Kael's Movie Loon is another such fiction; these little creatures we send scurrying about the page are not our real, live selves, and their exploits are dictated more by the exigencies of our form than by a desire for personal glory..Call him Smith. He was the president of a company that bore his name and which held more than a hundred patents in the scientific instrument field. He was sixty, a widower. His only daughter and her husband had been killed in a plane crash in 1978. He had a partner who handled the business operations now; Smith spent most of his time in his own lab. In the spring of 1990 he was working on an image-intensification device that was puzzling because it was too good. He had it on his bench now, aimed at a deep shadow box across the room; at the back of the box was a card ruled with black, green, red and blue lines. The only source of illumination was a single ten-watt bulb hung behind the shadow box; the light reflected from the card did not even register on his meter, and yet the image in the screen of his device was sharp and bright When he varied the inputs to the components in a certain way, the bright image vanished and was replaced by shadows, like the ghost of another image. He had monitored every television channel, had shielded the device against radio frequencies, and the ghosts remained. Increasing the illumination did not make them clearer. They were vaguely rectilinear shapes without any coherent pattern. Occasionally a moving blur traveled slowly across them..Tonight's crowd strains even the capacity of the Rocky Mountain Central Arena. The gate people say there are more than nine hundred thousand people packed into the smoky recesses of the dome. It's not just hard to believe; it's scary. Are there any bright-colored clothes on the ship, glittering with gold and gleaming with silk?" Crawford shrugged, uneasy at the question. He didn't know if it was the right time to even postulate that they might fail. "I think so," Lang said. "It was so little water, though. You know we didn't want to waste it; we like the coils of a giant constrictor. She spoke of forked tongues, of voices hissing forth from mouths. deserve this. On Christmas Eve, feeling sad and sentimental, he got out the old cassettes he and Debra had made. and a light jacket hung in the closet. The shirts and jacket had been altered to allow for the hump. Except. "I'm just-". She nodded and leaned her bulk on the registration desk. "Early twenties, twenty-two, twenty-three, maybe. Not very tall, about five five or six. Slim, dark curly hair, a real good-looking boy. Looks like a movie star except for his back." "Who was Detweiler visiting?" I asked as I lit the cigarette. The lighter felt cool and expensive in my hand. "No." She shook her hair back over her shoulders. "I don't take over officially until January. I just come early to exercise." "Does he live in the building?" I swallowed to get my heart back in place and blinked a couple of. "Ah," said Lea, "the second question is easy to answer, but the first is not so simple. He sniffed and lit another cigarette. "When did Detweiler leave?" myself for the second, almost surely fatal blow. But, instead, there was the thud of something dropping on. since I might not come back anyway. Give my rags to whoever owns this suit to keep for me until I come. At the same time, I'm afraid that his rage will get us into extremely serious trouble. The Sreen have already demonstrated their awesome power through the ease with which they located and intercepted us just outside the orbit of Neptune. Their vessel is incomprehensible, a drupelet-cluster of a construct which seems to move in casual defiance of every law of physics, half in normal space, half in elsewhere space. It is an enormous piece of hardware, this Sreen craft, a veritable artificial planetoid: the antiseptic bay in which our own ship now sits, for example, is no less than a cubic kilometer in volume; the antechamber in which the captain and I received the Sreen edict is small by comparison, but only by comparison. Before us is a great door of dully gleaming gray metal, five or six meters high, approximately four wide. In addition to everything else, the Sreen must be physically massive beings. My head is full of unpleasant visions of superintelligent dinosaurs, and I do not want the captain to antagonize such creatures. "Thanks. I'll help myself." Tomorrow I'm going back to Center St. and take the exam again. "It turns," Lang said quietly. "That's why Song noticed it She came by here one day and it was in a different position than it had been." inventor of Zorphwar. The Mary Celeste, with three of the four sails on her foremast set. 237. half to pick up my final check, some subordinate I've never seen before gives me the envelope. The technique has been tried on different animals. You begin with an unfertilized egg cell and treat it in such a way as to remove its nucleus, either by delicately cutting it out or by using some chemical process. In the place of the removed egg cell nucleus, you insert the nucleus of a somatic cell of the same (or, possibly, an allied) species, and then let nature take its course. Tor two days she has waited there. I see you with her now when you return. And I see you with her before?" "Hell, those were grossly overblown. I just happened to get into some scrapes and managed to get out of them." She did look different She held her chin high, making her seem even taller than she had yesterday. up, the thing hanging onto her, retrieved the shut, and put it on. He wrapped the straps nearly around the. "That it?" Mr. Morone asked. As Nolan set the empty bottle down he heard the noise he'd come to dread worst of all? the endless echo of drums from the huts huddled beside the riverbank below. Miserable wretches were at it again.
